

EDITORIAL ADDRESS

The Journal of the Council for Research on Religion (JCREOR) was born out of the McGill Center for Research on Religion (CREOR) which was active from 2006 to 2019. The journal is a web-based refereed interdisciplinary journal that publishes articles on all aspects of the scholarly study of religion. Subject matter ranges from the ancient to the contemporary and explores western and non-western perspectives and approaches.

Our inaugural volume deals with the theme of “Religion and Violence.” This theme was inspired by a SSHRC funded colloquium that took place between April 17th–20th, 2018, at McGill University as a collaborative effort with Concordia University. Further details concerning the colloquium can be found here: <http://creorgraduate.wordpress.com/religion-and-violence-colloquium>.

The articles contained in this issue examine various intersections between religion and violence, probing the extent to which the scholarly construction of “religious violence” can be seen as a distinctly “religious” phenomenon.
